More than 25 years of national and international experience

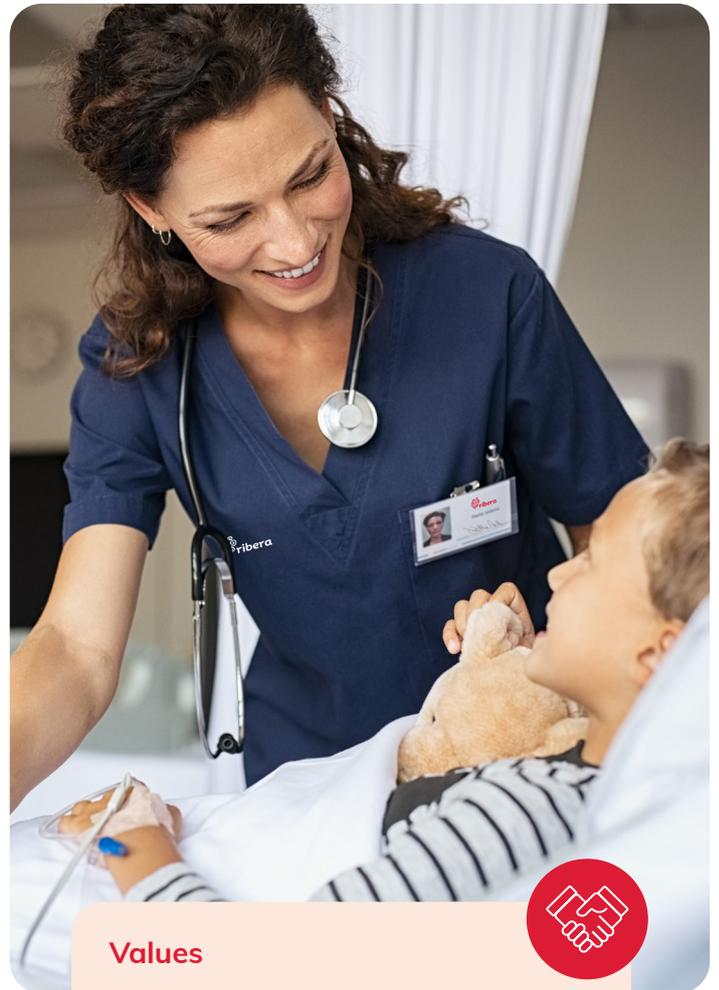

Ribera is a healthcare group that has been working to improve the health and wellbeing of the population since 1997.

The group provides public and private healthcare services in Spain, Portugal, Central Europe and Latin America. Its mission is to transform the way healthcare is managed and innovate in this field.

It has a healthcare network of hospitals and clinics, a University School of Nursing and Vocational Training Centre, a laboratory division, a radiology company, a purchasing centre, and a technology company, among other projects.

Its main shareholder is Vivalto-Santé, the third largest private healthcare group in France, with 50 hospitals and clinics in France, in partnership with the founding management team of the Ribera group. Vivalto-Santé and Ribera share values and a work philosophy based on value-based medicine through a collaborative model that involves its professionals and combines business vision and clinical vision to offer excellent services to citizens.

Its social commitment is evident through multiple initiatives that add value to present and future society and contributes to the sustainability of healthcare systems.
